Introduction

Fashion Colloquium 2020, is the launch of Third series of Fashion Colloquia recognizing the importance of a 'Responsible' future. ARCH College of Design & Business, Jaipur, India is hosting Fashion Colloquia 2020 to attract rich variety of contributions from a broad selection of people – from academia, media and practice – and utilize contributions for uploading to a newly established international repository for fashion.

The Stories of our past have evolved from our rich heritage and culture and have shaped our present lives. The quest of the human mind to know the unknown is the lead for the creation of our future. While design is all about the unpredictable emerging from the known, there is a constant desire to explore. In this quest of life, stories play a great role. While the present is an outcome of the stories of our past, the future aspires for new stories to be written for our meaningful existence in a shared future.

The 2020 Colloquia, will provide a forum for discussions, debate and interaction on how essential, and integral it is, for us to protect and preserve the colors and threads of our rich material culture and the unique stories they tell us. Narratives and Researches will be brought by experts who will bring together the rich variegated forms of storytelling to build a new shared future.

We want to invite you to join us on this next journey for fashion.
